HEALING TIDES
COUNSELING

Ary Bryce is a Clinical Social Work Associate under supervision of:
S. Devoll, LCSW, license # L7423

Education, Training and Experience

Greetings! My name is Ary, and I identify as a Black nonbinary queer person with a chronic illness who grew up in New England and who has been in Portland now for nearly a decade. As a person with these intersecting identities, I can empathize with how deep-rooted stigma around getting mental health support can keep us from accessing the healing that we truly deserve. My mission is to support clients in understanding and addressing the systems that tie us to our trauma and keep us from being our brightest selves. I'm also a huge nature and animal lover with bears being a personal favorite.

I received my bachelor's degree from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst in 2013 in Public Health and Education and decided to move to the West coast in order to continue my healing education with a stronger social justice focus and community. I graduated from Portland State University in 2022 with a master's degree in social work and am currently working towards licensure in Oregon. I'm experienced in doing short-term solution focused counseling, relationship focused practices, and narrative therapy. I have experience and strength working with BIPOC identified individuals, queer and trans folks, individuals with PTSD, anxiety and depression, single parent households, and supporting families and individuals with building healthy relationships.

Philosophy and Approach

When we are in session together you can expect that I will be using a mixture of modalities to support you on your healing journey. I prefer to use a combination of narrative therapy, multigenerational family systems, and trauma centered psychotherapy while we are working together. This means that I know that you are the expert of your own experience. You can anticipate me asking you some questions about the dynamics in your community, what you value, and how you are feeling in your body. I like to think of myself as a feelings soundboard so that together we can talk through your experiences and figure out what themes are coming up and what kinds of things are keeping you from being your brightest self. You can also anticipate that as an anti-racist practitioner that I will embrace conversations about race, identity, and the ways that otherization can have traumatic impacts on our health and our experience in this life. If any of this sounds like a good fit, then I cannot wait to connect! I work with adults 18+.

Insurance Reimbursement

If you have a health insurance policy, it will often offer some coverage for mental health treatment. Client-Therapist Relationship

You and your therapist have a professional relationship existing exclusively for therapeutic treatment. This relationship functions most effectively when it remains strictly professional and involves only the therapeutic aspect. Your therapist can best serve your needs by focusing solely on therapy and avoiding any type of social or business relationship. Gifts are not appropriate, nor is any sort of trade of services.

Social Media

Due to the importance of your confidentiality and the importance of minimizing dual relationships, I do not accept friend or contact requests from current or former clients on any social networking site (Facebook, LinkedIn, etc.). I believe that adding clients as friends or contacts on these sites can compromise your confidentiality and our respective privacy. It may also blur the boundaries of our therapeutic relationship. If you have questions about this, please bring them up when we meet and we can talk more about it.
