

Beck Margolin is a Professional Counselor Associate, LPCA #R8254 under supervision of: Quinn Rivenburgh, LPC, license #C6010

Education, Training and Experience

My name is Beck Margolin(they/them); I'm a white, queer, non-binary transmasculine person with chronic illnesses who grew up in New Mexico and moved to Portland recently from the Midwest. My intersecting identities provide me privilege that I am always challenging and open to discussing and they also give me insight into the ways we struggle as humans.

I'm a Professional Counselor Associate, which means I have earned my master's degree in counseling and am currently working toward licensure status under the supervision of licensed counselors Quinn Rivenburgh, LPC #C6010 and Cole Prophet, LPC #C6307. I began my career in mental health working with individuals with developmental disabilities and completed my education later in life, earning my BA in psychology from the University of Missouri-Kansas City in 2018 and a master's in counseling from the University of Missouri-Kansas City in 2021.

Major Coursework Description

In my master's program my coursework included: theories of counseling; human lifespan development; cultural diversity; the helping relationship including methods of counseling; career development; theories and methods in group counseling; diagnosis and psychopathology; principles and methods of research; assessment methods; professional orientation; stress and trauma; sex therapy; couples therapy; ethics in counseling; substance abuse; and prevention, consultation, and program evaluation in community settings.

Philosophy and Approach

I view therapy as a collaborative process – you are the expert on you. You may feel sometimes as though you are wandering through darkness without a map – my role is to illuminate resources you already have within yourself to find your way. I work to provide an open and accepting space in which you can discover and express your most aligned self.

Environmental stressors and structural injustices can deeply impact our ability to thrive, and I take this wider view when working with you. I offer concrete tools and resources to decrease your stress and suffering as well as a space to more fully explore the dynamics that have brought you to where you are now.

My approach is humanistic and person-centered, as well as existential, feminist, and social justice oriented. Theories and interventions I utilize include attachment theory and mindfulness approaches.

Insurance Reimbursement

Client-Therapist Relationship

You and your therapist have a professional relationship existing exclusively for therapeutic treatment. This relationship functions most effectively when it remains strictly professional and involves only the therapeutic aspect. Your therapist can best serve your needs by focusing solely on therapy and avoiding any type of social or business relationship. Gifts are not appropriate, nor is any sort of trade of services.

Social Media

Due to the importance of your confidentiality and the importance of minimizing dual relationships, I do not accept friend or contact requests from current or former clients on any social networking site (Facebook, LinkedIn, etc.). I believe that adding clients as friends or contacts on these sites can compromise your confidentiality and our respective privacy. It may also blur the boundaries of our therapeutic relationship. If you have questions about this, please bring them up when we meet and we can talk more about it.
