

Education, Training, Experience, Philosophy & Approach

I am a Licensed Clinical Social Worker (LCSW) committed to providing trauma-informed, person-centered, culturally appropriate care. I have both professional and lived experience with a wide spectrum of human challenges, including trauma, mood disorders, anxiety, social injustice, and addiction. After earning my BSW at Concordia University, I completed my master's degree in social work from Portland State University. My work history includes serving my community members/siblings who live with severe and persistent mental illness and related disorders, and who struggle with both systemic barriers and underlying feelings of shame, guilt, and fear. I have worked for DHS as well as housing programs, and many agencies who specialize in supporting survivors of sexual assault and human trafficking in all capacities. Lastly, I have served as a clinical supervisor for a dedicated group of professionals working with youth experiencing homelessness, LGBTQIA+ life transitions, grief, survivorship of human trafficking, domestic violence, and systemic oppression.

In addition to direct clinical practice, I am passionate about educating and empowering the next generation of BIPOC and queer-identified humans. I believe deeply in inclusion, integrity, and the unity of all living beings, as we are STRONGER together. I seek to honor my ancestors in all that I do. In my free time, you'll find me walking along the beach shore collecting the gems of the ocean along with the trash often left behind. If not there, I'm likely to be mentoring my survivor siblings or loving on my grandchildren.

I work with adults 18 years and older. My areas of specialty include the following: trauma and PTSD; anxiety; addiction; anger management; coping skills; grief; mood, impulse control, dissociative, personality, psychosis, and thought disorders; domestic and intimate partner violence; sexual abuse and addiction; dual diagnosis; human trafficking; life coaching and transitions; peer relations; self-esteem; stress; supervision; and other women's issues.

I practice clinical supervision, coaching, and motivational interviewing, along with the following therapeutic modalities: acceptance and commitment (ACT), attachment based, cognitive behavioral (CBT), dialectical behavior (DBT), emotionally focused (EFT), existential, feminist, humanistic, multicultural, narrative, person-centered, solution-focused brief, and trauma focused.

Client-Therapist Relationship

You and your therapist have a professional relationship existing exclusively for therapeutic treatment. This relationship functions most effectively when it remains strictly professional and involves only the therapeutic aspect. Your therapist can best serve your needs by focusing solely on therapy and avoiding any type of social or business relationship. Gifts are not appropriate, nor is any sort of trade of services.

Social Media

Due to the importance of your confidentiality and the importance of minimizing dual relationships, I do not accept friend or contact requests from current or former clients on any social networking site (Facebook, LinkedIn, etc.). I believe that adding clients as friends or contacts on these sites can compromise your confidentiality and our respective privacy. It may also blur the boundaries of our therapeutic relationship. If you have questions about this, please bring them up when we meet and we can talk more about it.
